Southern Baseball Assn. Strikes at Intentional Pass

Galveston, Tex., Nov. 17—(AP)—The Southern Association adopted a revolutionary playing rule today aimed at the intentional pass on balls when two players are out.

The league, which claims to have originated the resin bag for pitchers and numbers on uniforms for players, startled delegates to the thirty-second annual convention of the National Baseball Association with the following adoption:

"In any inning, after two outs have been made, if the pitcher delivers four consecutive balls to the batter the batter shall be entitled to first base and any and all base runners occupying bases shall be advanced two bases, except in the event both second and third base are occupied the runner on third base shall score and the runner on second base shall advance to third base."

So. St. Paul Plant Tied Up By Strike

South St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 17—(AP)—Operations ceased at the Armour & Company plant here today due to activity of pickets who drove back non-striking workers who sought to enter.

One picket was knocked down by an automobile whose driver refused to stop, but was not injured. Another man fled through a picket line chased by nearly 100 men, and entered the plant.

Company officials were allowed to enter the plant, but said too few of the 1700 employees had been able to enter to allow operations.

Members of the Packing House Workers Industrial Union are on strike, demanding increased wages, union recognition, and other changes. All employees do not belong to that union, and another claims membership of many.

Slow Work Getting Jury For Trial Of Pontiac Young Man

Pontiac, Ill., Nov. 17—(AP)—Opening of the murder trial of Asher Bentley continued to be delayed today by failure to complete the jury.

When court adjourned yesterday eight had been tentatively selected from the 75 who were examined by Miss Aline Younger, found dead months ago after accompanying the defendant on a drinking party.

records stored in the old Russian embassy. With Litvinoff's approval, they were removed to a downtown government building for examination by American and Soviet officials.

Secret Activities

Secrecy and a heavy police guard surrounded the move. None of the interested parties would disclose the exact nature of the records trucked away. It was considered likely they dealt with debts of the Kereny regime.

A formula for handling the debt question presented a major difficulty in the Roosevelt-Litvinoff conversations. The Soviet had refused to recognize any obligation because of loans to the Kereny government. American loans amounted to $187,000,000, but accumulated interest since pushed the total over $300,000,000.

Gasoline And Beer Taxes Totals High

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 17—(AP)—Increased revenue from the gas tax during October and a high tax yield from 3.2 beer have been announced by the department of finance.

Gas tax collections so far in 1933 totaled $22,120,187.56, an increase of $402,094.19 over the same period in 1932. The upswing in gas tax collections has continued for five months despite the fact automobile registrations are down 7.1 percent.

Licenses and gallonage taxes on beer have netted the state $1,798,068 in revenue since April 26. During that period 18,404 licenses have been issued to beer retailers, and 441 brewing permits have been granted.

RESTORATION OF SILVER IS NEXT INFLATION MOVE

Senator Pittman Says the President Will Take The Initiative

Washington, Nov. 17—(AP)—To other American monetary developments there was added today a prediction by Senator Pittman (D. Nev.) long an advocate of silver monetization, that President Roosevelt "will take the initiative in the restoration of silver."

"He has under consideration now various plans to accomplish this," said Pittman in a speech for the monetary conference called today by Senators Thomas (D. Okla.) and Smith (D. S.C.).

"One plan that I have submitted to him for his consideration," Pittman continued, "is the opening of the United States to the coinage of silver produced in the United States."

From the White House, though, there had come no indication that Roosevelt favored this plan above the many others that he is studying. But persons familiar with the President's program expressed a belief that eventually, at least, he would try to do something more concrete for silver.

Advisers Disagree

So far, these persons said, the President had relied upon his gold-buying plan, hopeful that as the prices of commodities went up that of silver would too. Even some of his advisers, however, fell to agree on whether silver is a monetary metal, like gold, or just another commodity.

With Henry Morgenthau Jr., this morning taking his oath as Undersecretary of the Treasury, some administration sources held there was no change likely soon in the government's monetary plan.

Whether the fact that the gold price today, for a third consecutive day, was kept steady at $35.56 meant Roosevelt was any nearer stabilization of the dollar in foreign exchange none would say.

The dollar had been skidding—obviously faster than the administration desired. But late yesterday it rebounded vigorously in New York, in terms of other currencies, closing at 5.26 to the pound sterling as against a peak of $5.52 5/8.

At the same time, Wall Street took cognizance of reports that these would be federal action of some sort to stem the export of capital through foreign exchange control, although Washington officials denied knowledge of such plans. Commodities strengthened, cotton and wheat went up, government bonds after early heavy sales and declines stiffened a little in later tradings.

Securities Sales Off

One bond influence, it was agreed, was disclosure in the weekly Federal Reserve statement that reserve banks last week bought only $2,500,000 of the federal securities. This contrasted with an average of $10,000,000 for the last several weeks.

There had been reports that the Federal Reserve was buying bonds heavily to keep them up, but Wall Street was impressed to find that the recent sales had been absorbed mostly by investment purchases.

Another factor in the situation was disclosure in Washington that Lewis Douglas, Budget Director, had set $2,500,000 as the limit he hopes to fix for federal expenditures in the next fiscal year.

Douglas also denied that he was about to resign, as had Dean Acheson, Undersecretary of the Treasury, and as Secretary Woodin tried to do. Some other changes were expected by officials, but they would not say that specific posts were involved. O. M. W. Sprague, a Treasury adviser, visited the White House yesterday and upon leaving told newspaper men that when he resigned they would hear about it.

Meanwhile, Morgenthau's vacated position as Governor of the Farm Credit Administration went to Dr. William I. Myers, another follower of Dr. George F. Warren.

CLINTON LODGE MASONS GUESTS OF DIXON LODGE

Unusually Fine Gathering at Temple Here Thursday Evening

Last evening the officers and many members of Emulation lodge, No. 255, A. F. & A. M. of Clinton, Iowa, were guests of honor at a banquet tendered by Friendship lodge, No. 7, A. F. & A. M. of this city, at the Brinton Memorial Masonic Temple, and served by the ladies of the White Shrine of Jerusalem to 350 Masons of northern Illinois. The Masters and many of the members of the Masonic lodges of Polo, Mt. Morris, Oregon, Rochelle, DeKalb, Sycamore, Lee Center, Amboy, Sublette, Compton, Franklin Grove, Princeton, Ohio, Walnut, Sterling, Rock Falls and Morrison were among those attending.

The Grand Lodge of Illinois was represented by District Deputy Grand Masters Harry W. Stauffer of Dixon and James Darnell of DeKalb.

Following the banquet the third degree was exemplified in a very beautiful manner by the officers of the Clinton lodge under the able leadership of George O. Anderson, who will be remembered by many Dixonites as the son of the late O. B. Anderson, who served Friendship lodge No. 7, in the capacity of secretary for a period of 26 years.

The remarkable success of the meeting can be attributed to the efforts of C. C. Buckaloo, Master of Friendship lodge, and the fine cooperation of his officers and the members.

CLEAN UP PROGRAM

Washington, Nov. 17—(AP)—Chicago and downstate city officials were today cleaning up the last of their relief program so they could return to their home cities in preparation of doing their part of putting Illinois allotted 187,000 civil workers on jobs Monday.

Mayors O'Brien of Peoria and Kovotny of Berwyn, after a series of conferences with Public Works Administration and Civil Works Administration officials, planned to leave late this afternoon.

Mayor O'Brien continued his negotiations with Deputy Administrator Waite, on his application for one million dollars with which to build a north-south sewer system through Peoria.

The office of Representative D. C. Dobbins, Democrat of Champaign, Illinois, said arrangements were being made today for P. W. Wright, president of the Champaign Board of Education, to consult Monday with Public Works Administration officials on an application for a loan of $250,000 for the construction of a junior high school building project.

The plans have already been approved by the Chicago office and forwarded here.

TO PAY FOR PLOWING

Chicago, Nov. 17—(AP)—County emergency relief committees have been authorized by the Illinois commission to make commitments against state funds for plowing land this fall to be used in subsistence gardens next spring.

The commission will pay for plowing acreage to be divided into individual plots, but will not pay for plowing town or city lots or acreage for mass production gardens. Bids for the plowing must be submitted to the state commission.

The 1933 subsistence gardens yielded a return of $6.43 for every dollar expended.

To Meet Monday

Robert J. Dunham, chairman of the commission, said today he had called a meeting of representatives of relief committees and chairmen of county boards to which the commission had made no allocations of funds to meet with him in Chicago Saturday.

Those called to the conference were requested to bring plans of public works contemplated in their communities as Dunham said he would explain the federal Civil Works program.

PROTEST TARDINESS

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 17—(AP)—Approximately a hundred persons today attended a meeting of downstate mayors called to protest that inadequate allotments of Public Works funds have been received.

Mayor George Brechitz of Belleville was elected permanent chairman.

"The failure of Illinois municipalities to get recognition of their APPLICATIONS for Public Works assistance has resulted in inability to start construction projects that would give employment to hundreds of men in our cities," Brechitz said.

Mayor James H. Andrews of Keokuk, a member of the Public Works Advisory Board for Illinois, and Carl H. Bauer, an engineer for the Public Works Advisory Board, were scheduled to speak in behalf of the administration.

WOODS IN WINTER

WHEN winter woods are piercing chill,

And through the haw-

thorn blows the gale,

With solemn feet I tread

the hill,

That overbrows the lonely

vale.

Over the bare upland, and away

Thru the long reach of desert woods,

The embracing sunbeams chastely

play,

And gladden these deep solitudes.

Where, twisted round the barren oak,

The summer vine in beauty clings

And summer winds the stillness broke.

The crystal icicle is hung.

Where, from their frozen urns,

Mute springs

Pour out the river's gradual tide

Shrilly the skater's iron rings,

And voices fill the woodland side.

Alas! how changed from the fair scene,

When birds sang out their mellow

lay,

And winds were soft, and woods

were green

And the song ceased not with the day.

Chill airs and wintry winds, my ear

Has grown familiar with your song;

I hear it in the opening year—

I listen, and it cheers me along.

—Henry W. Longfellow.

Golden Wedding For Postmaster And Mrs. Moyer, Monday

Postmaster and Mrs. John E. Moyer will on Monday, November 20, mark the fiftieth or golden anniversary of their marriage. The day will be quietly spent as Mrs. Moyer's health will not permit a celebration. However, hosts of friends extend best wishes to Mr. and Mrs. Moyer for many future happy anniversaries.

The lady who became Mrs. John E. Moyer November 20, 1883 was Anna B. Boardman, daughter of Isaac B. Boardman. Mr. Boardman came to Dixon from New York State sometime during the year 1836. He became the first County Clerk of Lee County. His first wife was a daughter of Grandfather Dixon, founder of this city. He also was one of the early editors of what is now The Dixon Evening Telegraph.

Mrs. Moyer has spent nearly her entire life in this city, the home of her birth. She was educated in North Dixon high school, has always been of retiring disposition, never taking an active part in society. Owing to ill health for a number of years past, she has remained at her home in North Dixon.

John does not need any introduction to residents of this city and vicinity. He, too, has been a long resident of Dixon. His paternal grandfather came to Dixon with his family from Pennsylvania during the year of 1838, settling on a quarter section of land east of this city, and later on known as the Crawford farm.

John received his education in Dixon public schools and at the age of 14 began clerking for Palmer Atkins in a grocery store, situated about where the north end of the Dixon National bank now stands. He later on was employed for a year in a department store in South Bend, Ind., returning from there he secured employment with John P. Lind, who operated a grocery store about where the Highway Cafe now is, on First st. Then for a short time clerked in the Godfrey & Steel grocery store situated in the old Opera Block. Then at a still later date was with Morris & Son, grocers on Galena Ave., as a clerk.

About 1880 he purchased a little grocery store operated by Henry K. Strong, in the small frame building formerly situated about where the present entrance is at Montgomery Ward's store. He remained there a short period, then moved to the west side of Galena avenue, into the building where he had formerly been a clerk for Palmer Atkins. A short time later he purchased the flour and feed business of George D. Laing, and operated both businesses for a few years. Retiring from the mercantile business he purchased a 10-acre tract of land north east of Dixon, owned by Mrs. Pratt, mother of Frank Pratt, which is now the home of Mrs. O. L. Baird.

Disposing of land that he had developed into a thriving fruit and gardening business, he moved back to the city and established a coal business near the North Dixon Illinois Central depot, which he carried on until the fall of 1904 when he disposed of the same to D. B. Raymond & Son, who are yet carrying on the same. The following spring, together with George W. Smith, the furniture and undertaking business of H. Camp & Son was acquired, and operated for a time as Smith & Moyer, then later on Mr. Smith's interest was purchased and John operated it alone, until about 1918 when Louis Schumm became a partner, the firm becoming known as Moyer & Schumm, then during the year 1919 he and Mr. Schumm became identified with Joseph W. Staples the business, being known as Staples, Moyer & Schumm. In 1922 Mr. Schumm disposed of his interest to Mr. Moyer, and during that year Frank Kreim took over the furniture business and is now carrying it on, in the same store that has been occupied by that line of merchandise for perhaps 70 years.

Sometime about the year 1896 John Moyer became Dixon Township Assessor, a position he held for 8 or 9 years, after which he became Supervisor of Dixon township for two terms of 2 years each, following which he was elected County Treasurer of Lee County. In the case of both Assessor and Supervisor he retired voluntarily. He is now serving as Dixon Postmaster.

He has always taken an active part in civic affairs, served a number of years as a member of the Letter From Mrs. G. P. Powell Enjoyed

The following delightful letter dated Nov. 13th, and written from Artesia, California, to a member of the editorial staff, will be of interest to many of the friends of Mrs. G. P. Powell and so we publish it:

I thought I would talk to you from California and surprise you. It is so warm today that it seems like summer, and I had a letter from Illinois saying it was snowing a little there. I have my summer dress on and have not worn my coat since I arrived.

We had a very nice trip out and made it in six days. Each night we spent in a different state so you can see we moved right along. The first night was in Missouri, in the Ozark Mountains and it was very beautiful. Then in Oklahoma, Texas, New Mexico and Arizona. The last day we drove from Casa Grande, Arizona to our destination in California.

We saw some very beautiful scenery on the trip but I can not say that any of it thrilled me more than the beautiful hills of Illinois covered in their Autumn colors. It made a picture that I would love to paint, if I could.

I amused my companions part of the time by writing verses and if I was quiet very long at a time, they would ask me if I was writing another verse. I usually was guilty.

(Tis wonderful to see all the beauty,

God has put in this world of ours;

This wonderful just to be living

And enjoying these happy hours.)

I think this is the first one I wrote but it kept my mind occupied while the miles counted up fast.

I am here at Artesia at Dr's brothers and am enjoying it hugely. Expect to visit in Los Angeles the last of the week and to see Miss Gelsenheimer.

Have seen some of the ruins of the earthquake at Long Beach and Compton but they are fixing or rebuilding as fast as they can. They say there was a slight tremor last night but I did not notice it.

Must close now and write some more letters. I presume I will be back in Dixon before any one misses me or knows I have gone.

Sincerely yours,

Mrs. G. P. Powell

Talk by D. W. Bayley to H. S. Students

By Bradley Moll

The students of the high school enjoyed an excellent talk this morning by D. W. Bayley, a representative of the Methodist church. Mr. Bayley, whose home is in Winnipeg, Canada, talked to the grade and high school students on the subject, "The Most Wonderful Thing in the World."

Prof. B. J. Frazer introduced the speaker, who at once launched into his very interesting address. Starting with the development of the earth, the speaker coincided the development of the brain in a parallel condition. He developed his talk by degrees, and finally showed man's superiority over the animal world, inasmuch as he had a superior brain.

Mr. Bayley's remarks might be summarized as highly educational and exceedingly worthwhile. In his closing remarks he impressed his listeners with the effect of alcohol on the brain of man.

His arguments were developed by his showing numerous specimens, which contrasted the effect of water as well as alcohol on various substances. He concluded his talk with a very fair analysis of the effects of alcohol on the body, with the personal advantages one might think he or she gained by imbibing it.

Mr. Bayley's talk proved very interesting, ably given, and certainly quite educational, not alone from a scientific angle, but also from a practical standpoint. The speaker will be heard Sunday evening at 7 o'clock at the First Methodist church.

Mrs. Gipson Honored Last Evening

Miss Helen Nagle and Miss Elsie Tayman delightfully entertained last evening, for Mrs. John Gipson, formerly Miss Ida Shaw, with three tables of bridge, at the home of Mrs. Eugene Ruehlend. Miss Edna Decker received the favor for first honors and Miss Leona Underwood the consolation favor. Mrs. Gipson was honored with a miscellaneous shower and received a number of lovely gifts with the best wishes of all present.

A delicious luncheon was served the latter part of the evening. Autumn flowers were the attractive decorations.

Mrs. Gipson is returning to her home in Chicago Saturday.

Union Thank Offering Service And Missionary Pageant

The union Thank Offering service of the W. H. and W. F. Missionary society, the Young People's Missionary Circle, the Mission Band and the Little Heron of the Grace Evangelical church was held at the church Tuesday evening with a very good attendance.

The dramatic missionary pageant, "The Challenge" given by members of the Young People's Missionary Circle was very impressive and was enjoyed by all present.

The cast consisted of the Misses Valoris Williams, Dorothy Ambrose, Pauline Pierce, Audrey Stewart, Mildred and Bethel Hartman, Carmen Scovill, Lois Howe, Mae and Melvina Reuter, Hazel Rhodes, Miriam Smith, Helen Noble, Alta Dunseth, Marion Buzard, Evelyn Roberts, Mrs. Nellie Rhodes, Mrs. Bessie Stewart, Mrs. Dunseth, Randall Wullbrandt, Austin Smith and Harold Stewart.

The pageant was given under the supervision of Mrs. Norman W. Dietrich, circle advisor.

Tenth anniversary of circle given by Mrs. Phyllis Heckman.

Song, "From Greenland's Icy Mountains" by all.

Prayer by Rev. A. D. Shaffer.

Small playlet, "Thankful vs. Thankless People" given by six members of Mission Band under the supervision of Mrs. R. P. Krahler.

Offering.

Short business lesson of different societies.

Song, "Bringing In the Sheaves" by all.

Benediction by Rev. A. D. Shaffer.

Book Review Is Well Attended

On Thursday afternoon a large and appreciative audience gathered at the home of Mrs. H. U. Bardwell, to listen to a book review given by her of a recent and much discussed biography—the "Marie Antoinette" of the Venetian author, Stephen Zweig.

Mrs. Bardwell in beginning her talk, spoke briefly of the author, a compatriot of the ill-fated queen, and then reviewed vividly and graphically, the career of this remarkable woman, forced to run the gamut of all human experiences—from the gay, even frivolous bride of fifteen, to the world weary and persecuted prisoner, who mounted the guillotine at thirty-eight years of age and showed a nation how bravely she could die.

The transformation in the character of Marie Antoinette was brought out very forcefully by the reviewer.

Mrs. Bardwell gave a sincere and moving picture of the various stages in the life of the French queen, which led her and her husband, the king, to unavoidable ruin.

Zweig's biography deals with its subject more as woman than queen, and stresses the more intimate phases, rather than the historic.

Mrs. Bardwell has a most gracious and pleasing manner of address and held the eager attention of her audience throughout her talk.

Tea was served later. The afternoon proved one of unusual interest and pleasure to all in attendance.

The next meeting and review will probably take place the seventh of December, in three weeks. Mrs. Bardwell has also been invited to talk before the Rotary club in Sterling.

SO. DIXON HOME BUREAU MEETING MONDAY

The South Dixon Home Bureau Unit will meet Monday with Mrs. Harold McCleary at her home on the Peoria Road.

Students Cheered By "Pep" Meeting

By Bradley Moll

Thursday afternoon the classes at the high school were shortened and at 3 o'clock the students adjourned to the gymnasium to have their spirits buoyed up by a "pep" meeting. Prof. B. J. Frazer, principal of the high school, turned the assembly over to Harry Lazier, who with Mr. Hintz arranged the students and snapped a picture of the assembly.

In turn, Vernon Swan, senior cheer leader, took charge and the "pepping" part of the program began. The program was as follows:

Piano selections—Eleanor Sterling.

Remarks—Coach B. C. Lindell.

Piano selection—Mae Eichler.

Short talks by members of the Varsity squad—Donald Miller, Co-captain, Frances Henry, George Curtis, Lloyd Muzey, Co-captain Kennedy.

Between these talks, Alice Street introduced a group of the girls from the Girls Hi-Tri club who sang the Loyalty song. Ed Nagle, alumni cheer leader, led in cheers and the following members of the Alumni gave brief talks: Captain John Crabtree, Francis Kennedy, Clyde Daniels, Gerald Bates, Ray Kline, Herbert Cooper, Ned Whitebread, Lowell Whitebread and Paul Grimes.

The program was concluded by Harry Lazier, who played the alumni loyalty song, which brought forth great applause, as it took the form of a funeral dirge.

Miss Barton To Speak at Meeting

Section 2 of the Ladies Aid Society of Grace Evangelical church will entertain the Aid at the church Tuesday afternoon Nov. 21, starting at 2:30.

A fine program has been prepared for the occasion. The guest speaker being Miss Esther Barton of this place, who will tell of her travels, her talk will be both interesting and educational.

The meeting is open to the public. Come and spend an enjoyable and profitable afternoon. A silver offering will be taken.

Miss Edwards Is Honored Guest

Mrs. Merton Memler and Mrs. Gordon McDonald delightfully entertained at a bridge dinner last evening at the home of the Misses Breed, Miss Helen Edwards' honor, as she is soon to become a bride, her marriage to Ray Motick to take place soon.

The beautifully appointed dinner was served at 6:30. The decorations were in pink and white and silver, the favors bearing tiny silver wedding bells. There were pink tapers and pink and white chrysanthemums, forming a charming combination.

Miss Elizabeth Countryman was awarded the favor for high honors, and Miss Kathryn Wright won the second favor and Miss Myrtle Swarts received the consolation favor.

Miss Helen Edwards was presented with a dainty guest favor.

Mrs. K. Waterbury Is Hostess to Friends

Mrs. Kenneth Waterbury of Chicago, formerly Miss Dorothy Trowbridge, who is visiting this week at the home of her parents, Dr. and Mrs. L. R. Trowbridge, entertained informally a group of friends last evening with bridge, there being guests for two tables.

Miss Cecile Barron was awarded the favor for high honors at bridge and Miss Mildred Pettit was presented a guest favor as it was her birthday. Most tempting refreshments were served as a culmination to a very happy evening.

MISS TAYMAN WILL ENTERTAIN CLUB

Miss Elsie Tayman will entertain the G. K. W. club this evening at her home.

Many Dixon Bridge Players Entered In Elks' Natl. Tourney

The Dixon Elks Club is taking part in the Elks National Bridge Tournament, which is being held throughout the country on Friday, Nov. 24th.

An interesting feature of this tournament is the fact that the same identical hands are going to be played at the same time throughout the nation—this is accomplished through the use of specially manufactured cards, which have a newly designed back.

By following a key, sixty-four different duplicate hands can be dealt, but only sixteen of these hands are to be used in the contest next Friday night. These sixteen hands are the ones prepared by sixteen of the leading bridge experts of the United States. This leaves forty-eight other highly interesting and instructive hands which can be used for playing duplicate bridge. In using these cards no duplicate boards are required and no duplicate experience is necessary.

Twenty-eight tables have been reserved. The committee has ordered a few extra cards to take care of those who were unable to commit themselves. Players wishing to enter please make reservations as soon as possible.

TAMPERING WITH CURRENCY.

So far the tampering with the currency that has been done by President Roosevelt neither has been as detrimental as some had feared nor has done the things the President hoped for. The most to be said against it is that it has given the business world evidence that the President is disposed to use the currency as a means of raising prices, and as long as business has that in mind it will be unsettled.

What the President is doing in the gold market does not seem to be clear to any one. It does not appear to be harmful; it does not yet appear to be beneficial. It may be the road to betterment.

On the face of it this does not appear to be an inflationary program. It veers away from printing press money, thus far.

International currency and exchange is a complex question understanding of which is given to few. Beyond that, what the President has in mind is given to few. Professor Warren of Cornell university, Ithaca, N. Y., seems to have the ear of the President now on the money question. Washington writers assert that those of the President's official family, Secretary Woodin and Assistant Secretary Acheson of the treasury department and Director Lewis Douglas of the bureau of the budget, who are expected to advise on finance, were not consulted concerning the moves into the gold market first at home and then abroad.

Nobody seems to know anything about what is going on, beyond the general knowledge that may be obtained from reading what Professor Warren says in his books. What President Roosevelt has in mind, and what Professor Warren has in mind is believed to be what he has in his books. What that will lead to, no body presumes to state.

Nobody is critical of the proceedings, as they would be of currency inflation. So far it merely is a matter of doing something different. Business stands by waiting to see what the end of the proceeding may be.

PUBLIC OWNERSHIP WAVE.

That the vote of November, 1932, was not a mandate to sweep every private activity into government control is indicated by a few straws in recent elections.

Birmingham, Ala., resisted inducements of the Tennessee Valley Authority, the Muscle Shoals creation of Norris and Roosevelt, to set up a municipal power plant and voted down a proposal.

Cincinnati defeated a proposal to acquire a gas and electric plant.

Youngstown, O., defeated a proposal to issue bonds to acquire a power distribution system.

Salt Lake City defeated a plan for a municipal power plant.

There were a dozen or more defeats for public ownership, with only one conspicuous victory, that at Camden, N. J.

"Easy money" from Washington probably was the inspiration for some of the proposals and inducements from the Muscle Shoals politicians may have had influence elsewhere. The public ownership idea has been more or less in the air since the government has taken on the job of planning anything and everything from the cradle to the grave, and the resistance shown comes as a surprise.

The people are getting so many things that were concealed in the bag last November that they now are beginning to wonder what they have done.

Our experience has taught us there is no use spilling blood to get a little part of any country.—George Schmitt, newly arrived representative of Germany's Stahlhelm in America.

You never can tell when I'll be sitting down here, trimming hats again.—Elda Vettori, Metropolitan Opera singer.

We human beings, old and young, enjoy tests, provided we are not going to be hanged if we do badly.—Dean Max McConn of Lehigh University.

When gentlemen address each other as "Sir" we have civilization. When they slap each other on the back, decadence has set in.—Abbe Dimnet.

I do not know just why, and can't explain it, but this country can be home to everyone.—Jose Iturbi, Spanish pianist.

The physical effect of alcohol on man will not be changed by ending prohibition.—Mrs. Ella A. Boole, president, W. C. T. U.

I believe that radio has debased high-class music. Many sponsors would use good music if they dared—but they feel the public doesn't want it.—Reinold Werrenrath.

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

"I win again," said Old Man Blow. "Gee, how I made old Thunder go! He always disappears from sight whenever the sun comes out."

"It is his job to stir up rain. When Sol is out, his work's in vain. Now that he's in his drum, he'll sleep for hours and hours, no doubt."

"Well, gee, I think 'twas fine of you, to help the sun come shining through," said Scouty. "All the kids on earth can run right out and play."

"They won't get soaked by rain, you see, and they'll be happy as can be. No one can have a bit of fun, when it's a rainy day."

Just then the bright sun shouted, "Say, now that the clouds are blown away, I want to thank you, Mister Blow, for clearing up the sky."

"I'm going to shine for all I'm worth and spread cheer all around the earth. I'll do it now, because the clouds will drift back by and by."

Soon Doty exclaimed, "Mercy me! I'm just as hot as I can be. I think we're too close to the sun. How can we get away?"

"If I was positive just where I'd land, I'd jump into the air. It won't be long until I'll melt, if on this cloud I stay."

"Now, wait," exclaimed Old Blow. "I guess I'll help you all out of this mess. Star Island is not far from here, and it is cool down there."

"If you'll agree, I'll blow some more and through the air you all will soar. I think you'll find it lots of fun to sail right through the air."

"We're game, but you're not strong enough," said Scouty. "Why, you'd pant and puff." Then Blow replied, "I'll use my bellows. They will do the trick."

He found his bellows, right in nearby. The Tinkles soon were in the sky, and as they sailed along, wee Goldy shouted, "This is slick!"

(The Tinkles land on Star Island in the next story.)

Daily Health Talk

CLIMATE AND HEALTH

We do not as yet understand fully just how climate affects health, but both experience and reason point to an intimate relationship between the two.

And it stands to reason that since the life and well-being of all animal and vegetable organisms are affected by temperature and season and shelter, man, too, must be subject to such influences.

Perhaps one reason there has been so much confusion and so much disagreement on this subject is that we have searched for universal principles, applicable to all humans under all conditions, when as a matter of fact, there are only relative principles, applicable under particular circumstances. Consider for example the matter of exposure in winter time. There is a saying in England that "It is the hard gray winter that makes hard British men." There are some robust individuals who not only can stand severe cold, but even seem to thrive on it.

But there are other humans in contrast, to whom a 10-degree drop in temperature is an invitation to cold and bronchitis.

In recent years the influence of climate on health has been subjected to close inspection. One of the outstanding conclusions drawn from these studies is that different human beings react differently to cold, wet and wind, and that a substantial number of humans must use every means at their command to protect themselves against the rigors of winter climate.

In Holland it has been demonstrated that a sharp fall in temperature always increases head colds. In Germany it was found that with atmospheric disturbances there comes an increase of infectious diseases.

The conclusion is that unless one belongs to that heroic group of humans who are relatively insensible to cold and who can brave it without suffering, it is wisest to protect oneself against cold, wet and wind by adequate clothing and adequate shelter.

It probably often occurs to Americans how fortunate they are in having a medical profession worthy of great respect. Unlike many doctors abroad, who are no better trained, the American physicians are not addicted to indorsing every Tom, Dick, or Harry's product, for the sole purpose of making extra money. This fact may be, and probably is, due largely to the restraining reins of the American Medical Association. But, inasmuch as that body is the instrument of self government of its members, the credit is still due to the American doctors.

Everyday Religion

THE BALANCE SHEET

By Dr. Joseph Fort Newton

"Life owes me nothing," said a saintly preacher recently, as he lay dying. A fortunate man, truly, both in the facts of his life and the quality of his spirit. He is to be envied who comes to his last bed feeling that the account is square; all debts paid.

How much better than the other kind of man—all of us know him, perhaps only too well—who is convinced that life owes him more than he ever gets, and is always grumbling because the debt is not paid in full, with high interest estimated by his vanity.

Alas, there are many to whom life does seem to have been niggardly, scrumpy, if not mean. It has scarcely paid them a living wage, either in money or health or happiness. But that may not be the fault of life itself, but due to the way man has mismanaged it.

But we who have enough to live on, health to meet the duty of the day, friendship, and love in plenty—what does life owe us? Nothing! All that life has ever promised is ours—the joy of work, the zest of play, the beauty of earth and sky, the thrills of living.

In fact, if the balance is honestly struck, we must find that we owe life much more than life owes us. What do we owe life? Surely we are under obligation not to take the gift of our days and years just as so much time to kill, so much shoe leather to wear out.

If our short story is to have worth to others, or a happy ending for ourselves, we must live in a manner worthy of life, seeking the meaning and value hidden in it. Also, if we have any spirit of sport, to say nothing of religion, we must lift life toward what it ought to be, leaving the world gentler, juster and brighter than we found it. To do less, to thing less is not to live at all.

After all, what may we ask of life, here or hereafter, but its leave to love, to serve, to commune with our fellow men and with ourselves, to do a bit of good along the way, and from the lap of Mother Earth to look up without fear into the face of God?

-and no loose ends

It would delight you to open a Lucky Strike and examine the long, golden strands of fine tobacco. To notice how fully packed it is... how free from annoying loose ends. Every Lucky Strike is a blend of the world's choicest Turkish and Domestic tobaccos—finely shredded—long and evenly cut. That's why every Lucky draws so easily—burns so smoothly.

ALWAYS the finest tobaccos
ALWAYS the finest workmanship
ALWAYS Luckies please!

GOOD THOUGHTS

If any of you lack wisdom, let him ask of God, that giveth to all men liberally, and upbraideth not; and it shall be given him.

—James 1

Wisdom and understanding are synonymous words; they consist of two propositions which are not distinct in sense, but one and the same thing variously expressed.

—Tillotson

True wisdom is to know what is best, worth knowing, and to do what is best worth doing.

—Humphreys

Wisdom and Goodness are twin born, one heart.

Must hold both sisters never seen apart.

—Cowper

The true greatness and the true happiness of a country consist in wisdom: in that enlarged and comprehensive wisdom which includes education, knowledge, religion, virtue, freedom, with every influence which advances and every institution which supports them.

—Henry Giles

Every normal human being desires to be divinely wise, to preserve harmony in his character, experience, home, and career, and lovingly desires this harmony for all individuals and nations, for love and wisdom are eternally allied. Because it prevents discord and opens the way for all blessedness and prosperity, wisdom is a universal human need.

—The Christian Science Sentinel.

"Come with us, and we will go three good for the Lord hath spoken good concerning Israel."

A hearty welcome awaits you at the First Baptist church.

Rev. James Gillespie preached last night on "Confession" and a very much interested audience followed his message with deep interest and sympathy. He pointed out the five stages of confession, confession of our sins, our faults, our blessings, our Christ and last but not least, His confession of us as His own before our father which is in Heaven. Last night again the Lord blessed his message with signs following. A man decided for Christ at the close. Tonight he will speak on "Has Cain Come to our City to Stay?"

If you have not heard this splendid preacher of the gospel come out and hear him tonight. The meetings will continue to Friday, November 24.

BRETHREN CHURCH

W. E. Thompson, Minister
Our Sunday school extends a cordial welcome to visitors and new members. Our teachers are efficient and will show an interest in your welfare.

At 11:00 A. M. the pastor will speak on the subject of "The Joy of Being a Christian." Mrs. Howard Emmert and Alice Shuck will sing. All are invited to this service. The evening service beginning at seven o'clock is for everybody, and we will make all feel welcome in this service. "The Story of the Pink Rose," a most beautiful service will be given which will take up the entire time and will be exceedingly interesting from start to finish. The house should be packed when the service starts. Eight singers and a reader will present the story which pictures in reading and song the steps that were taken to rescue a young lady from the lowest element of New York City, and how she became a Christian worker. A pink rose had an important part to play in the story, and gives it the title. All are invited to come early, if you want a good seat.

Gilbert Stansell, D. D., Pastor
"What is the Use?" will be the subject of the pastor at 10:45 A. M. He will be supported by the choir and the people in the conduct of the service.

Church School at 9:45 A. M. Fellowship group at 5 P. M. Epworth League at 6 P. M. W. D. Bayley, Winnipeg, Canada, will visit the league and give the young people a demonstration of temperance education.

At 7 o'clock there will be a temperance meeting at the church. At their last meeting the pastors of the city voted that so far as it is convenient the churches would invite Mr. Bayley to bring to Dixon his scientific message on temperance. All day today he is the guest at the Dixon schools, delivering a remarkable address at the high school this morning. He was at the parochial and three other grade schools during the day. Everyone who can should hear him Sunday evening. He has a real message for Dixon for the time in which we live.

Here is how he impresses our leaders:
District No. 102, LaGrange, Cook County, Illinois.
Mr. Bayley talked to nearly one thousand of our elementary school children yesterday. He is a master in the art of talking to a group of children. From his opening remarks until the close of his talk nearly an hour today, he held their undivided attention. His humor was wholesome and keenly enjoyed by both pupils and teachers. His message was presented in a way to make a deep and lasting impression on these young men.

gives. I shall be pleased to have school men refer directly to me if they have questions.

Dr. G. W. Willett, Superintendent
Evanston Township High School, Evanston, Illinois

I have had the privilege of listening to two different talks delivered by Mr. Bayley to Juniors and Seniors of the Evanston high school. At both times he has held the close attention of the students, and I have been very favorably impressed both with the content and with the style of delivery of his talks on exceedingly important subjects.

George A. Whipple, Senior-Junior Home Room Director, University of Illinois, Urbana, Ill.

May I thank you for recommending Mr. W. D. Bayley to me to have him speak to the women of the University. Mr. Bayley was doubly effective with his drawing on the blackboard as it appealed to the eye as well as to the ear. His appeal to ideals and future parenthood was beautifully done. I have had fine responses from the young women about his talk. I would endorse his lecture for all students in the upper grades, high school and of university age.

Brooks-Pope Nuptials

Tuesday afternoon at the parsonage of the Grace Evangelical Church, the pastor, Rev. J. E. Wagner conducted the double ring ceremony which united the lives of Harold Brooks and Miss Gouge Pope, both of this vicinity. The only attendants were Frederick A. Schmidt and Miss Margaret Binkley, intimate friends of the young couple. The groom is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Brooks, residing east of Brookville. He is a highly cultured and industrious young man, a graduate of Polo high school with the class of 1933. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Pope, of near Foreston, a young lady of sterling qualities and a graduate of Foreston high school. Immediately after the ceremony the happy couple left on an extended tour of the southern part of the state, after which they will be glad to meet their many friends at the groom's parental home, where they will pursue the occupation of farming.

Adventuress Will Hunt African Game

San Francisco.—Miss Ruth B. Dane, University of California graduate, had hardly set foot ashore here after three years of adventure and exploration in out-of-way places of the world until she announced plans for a big game hunt in Africa.

Her announcement dashed the hopes of her family that she would return home ready to settle down.

For the big game hunt, Miss Dane hopes to enlist five of her former girl classmates as members of the expedition.

Miss Dane's latest explorations were in the wilds of South America, where she spent a six months' hiking tour.

Mrs. Charles Kinn, Mrs. McCourt's mother has also been a Dixon visitor this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Perrine were business visitors in Rockford on Thursday.

OBITUARY

LESLIE JAMES REES

(Contributed)

Leslie James Rees, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis P. Rees, was born in Paw Paw, Ill., February 26, 1887 and died in the Katherine Shaw Bethel hospital, Nov. 11, 1933, aged 46 years, eight months and 15 days. His sickness was of short duration, he having been ill but ten days. On July 4, 1911, the deceased was united in marriage to Helen Unger. Two daughters were born to this union. Sorrow entered the home in February 1916 when his companion passed to the beyond.

On December 10, 1927, he was united in marriage to Irene Zorger and two children were born to this happy union. The deceased moved to Dixon in 1915 and for the past two and one-half years, was in the employ of the Dixon Home Lumber company.

Mr. Rees was confirmed in the Lutheran church and on March 21, 1929, he with his wife united with the Grace Evangelical church. Those who remain to mourn the loss are his sorrow stricken wife, three daughters and one son: Leah, Ina, Mary Louise and John Lewis, his parents, Edward and Glenn of Rockford and a host of other relatives and friends.

Funeral services were conducted from the Jones Funeral Home on Monday, Nov. 13 at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Rev. A. D. Shaffer officiating and with interment in Oakwood.

He will be missed in the home and the community. He is gone but not forgotten. Sometime, we'll understand.

U. S. Door Bell Curiosity in South African Town

East Hampton, Conn.—An electric doorbell manufactured here, has become the greatest curiosity in the town of South Coast, Natal, South Africa, according to word received here by Miss Florence Day.

Miss Day gave the bell to Miss Sibusisiwe Makanya, a student friend, and when she returned to her home in South Africa she took it with her.

It is the only bell in the town, and natives, young and old, come to the house to press the button and listen for the sound, Miss Makanya wrote.

'Most Beautiful Blond' to Wed

"The most beautiful blond in the world," if Charlie Chaplin is any judge, is matrimony bound. Virginia Cherrill, above, formerly Chaplin's leading lady, will be the bride of Cary Grant, left, lead in Mae West pictures—if Grant is right in the admission he made to New York reporters when Miss Cherrill tossed him a corsage of orchids as she sailed for Europe.

COOK BOOK MENACES ESKIMO'S DIGESTION

Modern Recipes to Inject Novelty Into Diet.

Washington.—Dyspepsia and finicky appetites are probably in store for Greenland Eskimos. Late news dispatches from Copenhagen state that a cook book of 450 recipes has been compiled to inject novelty into the simple Eskimo diet. The volume will be translated into the native Greenland dialect.

"Igloo cookery presents few problems," according to a bulletin from the National Geographic society. "The Eskimo wife has never known the strivings of her white sister to excel as a 'fancy cook.' Her husband has never regaled her with tales of the pies his mother used to bake, for he has never tasted pastry, or candy of any sort in his life. Meat is his almost unvarying food. The meat of the polar bear, seal, walrus, caribou, white whale, narwhal, and musk oxen, are all palatable to him.

Simple Equipment.
"The average Eskimo bride starting housekeeping in a new igloo needs only four things in the way of furnishings: a meat knife, lamp, cooking pot, and sewing kit. The blubber burning lamp, which also serves as a stove, is usually near the entrance to the hut. Suspended from the ceiling above it hangs a large soapstone cooking pot from which comes the aroma of boiling seal meat. At the sound of the sleds returning from the day's hunting expedition, the Eskimo wife, crouching over the stove, stirs the pot of simmering seal meat for her husband's supper.

"Dropping in for an evening meal with an Eskimo family, one would see old and young squatted on their knees, and each ready with a knife. Each member of the group takes a piece of juicy, cooked seal or walrus meat in his left hand, shoves it into his mouth, and seizes a strip between his teeth. With a deft stroke of the knife, he cuts off a mouthful, just at the lips. Often-times liver and blubber are held in each hand, and eaten alternately. The meat is washed down with draughts of ice-cold water.

No Fruit or Vegetables.
"Fruits and vegetables are unknown items in the diet of the Eskimo. When the meat supply is exhausted, the Greenland Eskimos gather rockweed and kelp, and dig the bark of willow bush out of the frozen soil. This is cooked into a jelly in the soapstone pot. This food, however, is not pleasing to the Eskimo palate, and is eaten only to stave off starvation when more desirable food is unobtainable. The nearest approach to ordinary vegetable matter consumed by the Eskimo is the semi-digested moss found in the stomachs of the caribou. This material becomes the Eskimo's 'greens.'

"Fish eaten either boiled or raw, offer variety to the menu. Clams are also included in the seafood dishes of the Greenland Eskimo. He obtains them via the stomach of some freshly killed walrus who has just feasted upon the mollusks. Stuffed head of walrus is undoubtedly the subject of at least one of the new recipes designed for the Greenlanders. They are fond of the unadorned head, and could possibly cultivate a taste for an elaborate preparation of it.

"In the Greenland spring, the porcupine, or little pig, appears. This means another dietary change for the natives. Through the summer hundreds of these birds are netted and stored for food during the long winter months. The eggs of the older duck, the brant goose, and the gull are the object of an intense search near the end of June each year. The family egg supply for the coming winter is stored in stone caches where the eggs become chilled first, and then frozen. They remain in this condition until eaten in the winter. Not all of the eggs collected are stored, however, for the Eskimo wife prepares an egg sausage, sometimes using as many as 300 eggs to one sausage. The eggs are broken and poured into a washed seal intestine, and in this state are eaten from time to time throughout the winter."

Quits Earldom For U.S. Ranch

Pomp and power of the peerage and a seat in the British House of Lords have been renounced by Christian Arthur Wellesley, fourth Earl of Cowley, for the pastoral happiness of a Nevada ranch. The earl, shown here with his wife, formerly a Reno night club check girl, whom he married last June, has applied for U. S. citizenship after buying the Washoe valley ranch.

The UNKNOWN BLOND

By Laura Lou
BROOKMAN

BEGIN HERE TODAY
On a stormy November evening DAVID BANNISTER, needs a pretty blond girl and offers her a lift in the cab in which he is riding. Her handbag opens and he sees a revolver inside.
Next morning Bannister reads that TRACY KING, orchestra leader in a movie theater, has been found dead in his apartment. Police are searching for an "unknown blond" who visited King the night before. Bannister, remembering the girl in the taxi-cab, is puzzled.
He sees her again that morning. The girl tells him her name is JULIET FRANCE and that she knows nothing of the murder. He goes to see his old friend JIM PAXTON, editor of the Tremont Post, and arranges to work on the King murder case for the Post. Bannister and J. RAY DOLPH GAINES, star reporter go to police headquarters. They learn that HERMAN SCHULACH, unemployed, is in jail, accused of writing a threatening letter to King.
Bannister decides to take a look at the room where King died and leaves. On the way he stops to see Juliet France. He is informed that she has left the hotel. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER VIII
BANNISTER repeated, in a tone of disbelief, "Checked out? You mean she's gone? But there must be—"

"Miss France checked out of the hotel early this afternoon," the voice over the wire told him crisply.

Bannister heard the click that meant that the telephone call had been disconnected. He put down the instrument he had been holding, stared at it rather stupidly for an instant and then turned away. He walked slowly across the lobby toward the door.

But he had not taken a dozen steps before he was back. He said to the room clerk, "I understand that Miss France has left the hotel. Do you know if she left a message for me? My name is Bannister—"

The room clerk turned. "I see, sir," he said and began sorting through a collection of envelopes. A moment later he shook his head. "There's no message," he said.

"And she didn't leave a forwarding address?" Bannister persisted. He knew, even as he asked, that she hadn't. Juliet France had gone away from the Hotel Tremont because she didn't want anyone to be able to find her. Evidently she hadn't trusted him, hadn't believed him when he said he would try to help her.

Or did this disappearance have an entirely different meaning? Did it mean that the story the girl had told him that morning was a tale of lies, made out of whole cloth to appeal to his sympathy? Did it mean she was a clever adventuress?

"No, there's no forwarding address," the clerk said briefly.

Bannister thanked him, turned back toward the door. This time he went out to the street, hailed a taxi and told the driver to take him to the Shelby Arms.

He felt rather as though he had dived from a high spring-board and landed flat. The more he thought of it the more he was convinced that the girl had used him to suit her purpose—and how well she had done it, too!—then artfully gone her way. What those purposes were, what part he had played in them, Bannister could not guess. Of course her story about going to see Tracy King to ask for a job was ridiculous on the face of it. So was her explanation about the revolver. And she had said she had no friends and was so terrified of the police and the tears had come into her eyes!

MARYLAND WILL SEEK TO PUNISH NEGRO'S KILLERS

Atty. General Files Information Against Nine Mob Members

BULLETIN

Crisfield, Md., Nov. 17.—(AP)—State's Attorney John B. Robins said today that if he submitted to Attorney General William Preston Battle, Jr.'s request to have nine men arrested for the Princess Anne lynching of Oct. 18, another mob would take them out.

"I don't believe those men would stay in jail," said Robins. "I believe a crowd would form and take them away."

Baltimore, Nov. 17.—(AP)—The state of Maryland may seek murder indictments against nine persons for the lynching of George Armwood, Negro, at Princess Anne on Oct. 18 as indicated in the request of Attorney General William Preston Battle, Jr. for their arrest. The Attorney General announced last night he had forwarded to State's Attorney John B. Robins at Princess Anne information identifying "by name, address and occupation nine persons who participated in the crime" and describing "the part each took," adding that: "To kill by lynching is to commit murder. The leading of the crowd to the jail, the assault upon it and any effort to break into it, or inciting the mob to do so, and the taking of the Negro out of the jail are all a part of the same crime." Armwood was arrested on Oct. 16, after Mrs. Mary Denston, 61-year-old white woman, said he had attacked her. He was rushed to Baltimore to avoid threats of mob violence but was returned less than 24 hours before a mob stormed the jail and lynched him.

"If they could only find that woman—" His words broke off as he turned the key.

BANNISTER muttered, "Damn!" and drew his brows together.

He had forgotten that he had gone into this thing to help Juliet France, that his visit to Jim Paxton's office and the sudden, im-prompt suggestion that he should go to work for the Post had all come about because of the girl. He wanted to know now, more than ever, who Juliet France was. He wanted to know whether or not she had killed Tracy King—and if so, why.

The cab slowed and came to a halt. Bannister got out, paid the driver and walked slowly up the steps. For an instant he had a vision of a slender, green-clad figure silhouetted against that entrance—a figure that drew back from the stormy night, then darted into it. But the vision was gone almost as quickly as it had come.

Bannister pulled the heavy door open and stepped inside. He was in a large, oblong entrance, carpeted and furnished almost like a room in an impressive private home. Chairs, a divan and tables were arranged with taste. He noticed a tapestry that he did not like and a tall vase of bronze chrysanthemums placed before a mirror. The only detail that was unlike a home was the hotel desk at the rear. A man stood there. A little at his left sat the switchboard operator and as Bannister moved forward he heard the operator's softly slurred, "What number are you calling?"

Bannister addressed the clerk. "Are you Mr. Link?" he asked. "My name is Bannister and I've a note here from Chief Henley—"

A swift change of expression—was it alarm or something stronger?—came over the clerk's face. "Yes I'm Mr. Link," he admitted. "You say Chief Henley sent you?"

Bannister presented the envelope containing the note. It had been scrawled with a pen and was nothing more than a request that Mr. Bannister, the bearer, be permitted to see the rooms Tracy King had occupied in the hotel.

"Why—why, yes, certainly," the clerk agreed quickly. "I'll take you up myself. If you'll just wait a moment while I get someone to take charge of the desk—"

HE DISAPPEARED. The telephone operator, a pretty girl whose Irish ancestry was unmistakable, had been watching Bannister with open interest. Now she kept her eyes averted, became elaborately preoccupied with her switchboard.

"Doesn't want to talk," Bannister decided. He turned his back on her and continued to inspect the large room.

Link was back shortly, a younger man beside him. The newcomer stepped behind the desk. Link said, "Now Mr. Bannister—" in the tone he might have used with a prospective hotel tenant, and led the way to the elevator.

Neither spoke during the ascent. Bannister thought that the unfurnished youth who operated the elevator displayed considerable interest as they stepped out on the third floor and that he lingered to see which direction they would take. Then the sliding door closed and the elevator was on its way.

Side by side the two men moved down the corridor. Evidently Mr. Link was not overly experienced in the ways of police departments and detectives. "You're a special investigator, are you? Mr. Bannister?" he asked "Is that why you're here?"

Bannister said, "yes" and felt that he was not misrepresenting the facts.

"It's a terrible thing — Mr. King's death," the hotel clerk went on. "Nothing like it has ever happened since I've been here. It's been a shock to everyone — the guests, the help, everyone! They all knew Mr. King. He was always so pleasant. Such a fine looking young man—"

"It was you who found him, wasn't it?" Bannister asked.

"Yes, Mr. Dragan and I. He didn't come back to the theater and Mr. Dragan came to find out what was the matter. When he knocked and couldn't get an answer he came downstairs and we went back together."

"I suppose the police are sure it couldn't have been suicide?"

"Oh, impossible! The coroner said that was out of the question because there were no powder burns—and then there wasn't any gun. No, it couldn't have been suicide. Besides Mr. King had no reason to do such a thing!"

"I wonder," said Bannister. A moment later he asked, "Isn't there anyone from headquarters here now?"

"Not now," Link said with a shake of his head. "There were half a dozen here last night. The Chief, too. This morning there were two men — detectives—out, asking questions of the servants and some of the tenants. I'm afraid they didn't learn much. If they would only find that woman—"

HIS words broke off as he turned the key in the lock. The door swung open.

Bannister saw a living room, longer than it was wide, with three windows at the end. There was an attractive dark rug on the floor, attractive, figured draperies at the windows. Aside from these details the room was completely in disorder. A desk, standing before the window had been rifled. Chairs were at all angles, one of them upturned. Pillows from the davenport had fallen to the floor. Dirt had been trampled into the carpet and there were several places where ashes had been spilled.

"We haven't done anything to the rooms at all," Link was quick to explain. "Everything is just as they left it last night. Captain McNeal said they weren't to be touched. I locked the door myself and it hasn't been opened since."

Bannister considered the wreckage before him. That was to be expected, of course. The photographs at headquarters would give a record of the appearance of the room exactly as it had been when King's body was found. The disorder indicated that the search of the apartment had been most thorough. No chance that Henley's men had missed anything.

"In there," said Link, "is where we found him. In the bed room."

A boyish voice called from the corridor, "Oh, Mr. Link! Mr. Link!"

The clerk turned. "Excuse me," he said, "I'll have to see what they want. I'll be back in a moment."

Bannister nodded. He heard the door close behind him as he moved forward, halting in the entrance to the bedroom.

It was smaller than the other room and it, too, had been completely disordered. A dark, brownish stain on the gray carpet told its unmistakable story. Bannister knelt to inspect the stain.

Even before he heard a sound he was aware of the presence behind him. There was no time for action. Cold perspiration stood on Bannister's forehead; he would have turned but he could not. Then something landed on his back.

RACKET PICKS COIN OFF FAMILY TREES

Despite Warnings Hundreds Fall for Swindle.

London.—Americans in search of a family tree should take warning from the latest of many statements about bogus genealogists issued by the United States consulate general in London.

For, according to the consulate general's office, these fly-by-night gentry this year are reaping a richer harvest than ever from the United States at the expense of those people who believe they are missing heirs to vast fortunes or have claims to noble birth.

Sixty letters a week are being received at the consulate general from Americans who believe they are missing heirs. As usual, most of them have no legitimate claim to any fortune and are told so by return mail, but for those who write to the consulate general there are hundreds of others who place their claims—and their dollars—in the hands of bogus genealogists.

At the consulate general's office there are hundreds of cases on record of people who have been defrauded of their hard-earned coin by these men.

Only recently a trickster living in London started—or claimed to have started—to compile the history of the Bennett family. Hundreds of Bennetts in America and Britain were circled by the man, who said he thought they were associated with this "noble family." He promised to have a record of all the Bennetts privately printed. The dollars rolled in, but the subscribers are waiting for their book. The Ancient Society of Genealogists is up in arms at this traffic, which, they contend, is dimming the fair name of all latest genealogists.

but the authorities have a hard time in catching the swindlers, who move from one address to another with great rapidity.

Total Ages of London Family Thousand Years

London.—That he has the biggest family in London is the claim of Frederick Henden. Henden has had 21 children, 10 of whom are still living, 61 grandchildren (as far as he can remember), and 10 great-grandchildren.

Himself one of twins, Henden has 23 brothers and sisters, and as far back as the family history can be traced the Hendens have always had large families. His children are carrying on the tradition, for one daughter has 15 children and another 12.

Next year the total ages of the family will reach 1,000 years, it is claimed.

Police Keep Spendthrift From Wasting His Money

Omaha, Neb.—The first person James Kinney, Ulysses, Neb., met when he arrived here to paint the town red with $855 he had accumulated, was a detective, who took him to the station and impounded the money. The desk sergeant allowed Kinney $5 per day for red paint work and he thanked the entire department upon leaving several days later with his bank roll intact.

JONES GROCERS HOLD TOP RUNG ANOTHER WEEK

Woolworths Set A New Record In Ladies Bowling League

The Woolworth Store ladies team bowled a new team single game record of 636 and a record series count of 1729 this week in the Ladies Handicap Bowling League at the Recreation alley, and with these totals won two games from the second place Wolverines.

Another record worthy of praise was the new individual single game of 202 bowled by Jarloth Jones of the Jones Grocery team. Anna Daschbach's high series of 500 is still top series for the league.

High average is held by Anna Daschbach with 148.5 for 12 games rolled.

Jarloth Jones rolled 446 this week to top second place in individual averages, now holding 146.1 for 12 games.

Third position in individual standings belongs to Marie Worley who collected a series of 428 this week, and is now averaging 140.2 for 12 games.

Lucy Bovey holds fourth place with an average of 134.4 for 8 games.

Helen Finney with an average of 132.1 possesses fifth position to date for 12 games.

Grocers Lead
The Jones Grocery team won two games from the Blackhawks by collecting games of 452, 521, 597 for a team total of 1570.

The Blackhawks won the last contest with a 571 total. Their final count was 1501.

Jarloth Jones totaled 446 for high individual series for this match while her single game of 202 established a new high for that event thus far in the league.

Lucy Bovey contributed a nice series count of 431 for the Blackhawks.

Wolverines vs Woolworths
The Woolworth girls set a new team single and series record when they bowled 636, and 1729 respectively.

During this series in which the Woolworths won two games from the Wolverines, Helen Finney totaled 439 while Olive Beede took high single game honors with 189 her first game. Miss Beede also rolled high series for the Woolworth team with 426.

Woolworth's total—1729; Wolverines' total—1599.

BANNER ARRAY OF HARD GAMES
FOR TOMORROW

Picking Winners Gives Fans Some Difficult Problems

By HERBERT W. BARKER
(Associated Press Sports Writer.)
New York, Nov. 17.—(AP)—Another banner array of big time games, complicated by tradition and all the uncertainties that traditional rivalries bring, presents the puzzled football fan some nice problems this week.

On the basis of what has occurred so far, the prospects for the major clashes line up something like this:

Fordham-Oregon State: A slight leaning toward Fordham can be explained by the Rams' apparent superiority on the attack.

Michigan-Minnesota: The crucial hurdle for Michigan's undefeated and untied Wolverines, who rate a narrow edge on the rested Gophers.

Pitt-Nebraska: Their own national aspirations ruined, the Pitt Panthers hope to wreck Nebraska's perfect record and look slightly stronger in this clash of evenly matched elevens.

Georgia-Auburn: Most football observers are content to string along with Georgia's undefeated Bulldogs.

Invisible Edge
Southern California—Oregon—There's no tougher one on the list. The weak offense the Trojans have shown so far gives the northwest outfit an all but invisible edge. Princeton-Navy: Princeton's unbeaten Tigers rule favorites, and deservedly so.

Purdue-Iowa: The Boilermakers should win but Iowa undoubtedly will put up a strenuous argument.

Duke-North Carolina: The records point to another triumph for unbeaten Duke.

Colgate-Syracuse: Syracuse has been too inconsistent this season to warrant any prediction for a victory over Colgate.

Illini Look Superior
Chicago-Illinois: The Illini look far superior.

Tulane-Kentucky: Tulane has played winning football since it stopped fumbling and the Greenies are favored.

Washington-U. C. L. A.: T's Washington outfit beat Stanford at home and was trounced 33-0 by California at Berkeley. The U. C. L. A. game at Seattle inspires a timid ballot for Washington.

Dartmouth-Cornell: Old rivals are these, with Dartmouth apparently the better team this season.

Northwestern-Notre Dame: A tie looks like the best bet in this match between fumbling, uncertain elevens. Notre Dame's running attack, at least as far as the 10-yard line, is more powerful.

Harvard-Brown: A close game in prospect but maybe this is the

PROCEEDS FROM RING SHOW WILL GO TO MILK FUND

Good Card Is Arranged For Boxing Show Wednesday Eve

The athletic show to be staged at the Ottawa avenue arena Wednesday evening, of next week, promises to attract a packed house, judging from the advance sale of tickets, it was announced today. The Dixon Athletic club has donated the arena to the Dixon Labor League and the proceeds will be placed in the milk fund. The program as announced will contain some new and novel ring features. The feature of the evening will be a double winnow wrestling match in which "Wildcat" Elliott, 190 pound DeKalb grappler, will meet Dave Reynolds, 229 pounder from Mason City, Iowa. Mickey Barefield of this city, weighing 170 pounds is matched with Jack Gorman of Dubuque who scales 185 pounds.

Another feature will be a mixed match in which Joe Wood, 160 pounds, of this city, University of Illinois wrestler, will meet Paul Ardinnini of Rock Falls, 157 pound boxer. Woods will wrestle while Ardinnini will wear the gloves and box his opponent. In addition to these features, there fast boxing bouts will be presented.

Bill Peterson and Ray Wilson, local heavyweight boxers have donated their services for the evening in one of the matches.

Tickets for the evening's entertainment have been placed on sale at the following places of business throughout the city: Backingham & Kline cobbler shop, Briteway Paint store, John Valle billiard parlor, United Cigar store, Aschenbrenner Tavern, Good Eats Shop, Blackhawk hotel and the High Life Tavern in Dementtown.

CANADIAN WHEAT IMPORTS FORCE EMBARGO CHANGE

North Dakota's Chief Executive To Per- mit Durum Sales

Bismarck, N. D., Nov. 17.—(AP)—A partial lifting of North Dakota's nearly month-old wheat embargo was in prospect today.

Gov. William Langer, who on Oct. 19 issued a proclamation forbidding shipment of all wheat from the state, prepared a new order, for probable issuance today, to permit movement from North Dakota of durum wheat. Out-state shipments of hard spring wheat still would be banned, however.

Modification of the embargo will follow closely upon rises in price of durum at Duluth, Minn., where the range has been from 85 cents to 104¢ per bushel, which has made it possible for Canadian shippers to send in their durum despite a 42 cents a bushel tariff.

It was indicated in official circles for the Governor's modification plan was due to the situation developing as a result of the Canadian grain movement.

Approximately 60,000,000 bushels have been tied up in North Dakota since the embargo. Gov. Langer ordered all sheriffs to see that no wheat was shipped and he had threatened use of the National Guard if necessary to enforce his order.

Galveston, Tex., Nov. 17.—(AP)—Larry McPhail, soon expected to be named president of the downtrodden Cincinnati Reds of the National League, today announced the acquiring, through a trade, of Tony Piet, second baseman, and Adam Comorosky, outfielder.

In exchange for these two Pirates, the Reds sent to Pittsburgh the veteran pitcher, Charles F. "Red" Lucas and Walter Roettger, outfielder.

McPhail declined to say if any cash was involved.

tion of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues.

Speed And Youth
Seeking strength to again place the Cincinnati club in a contenting position, McPhail said he thought he had in Piet and Comorosky the speed and youth he desired.

Piet, who came up to the Pirates from Wichita of the Western League, is only 25 years old. He was second in number of bases stolen in the league, in 1932, pilfering 19. Last year he batted .324.

In 1931, when he played regularly, Comorosky batted .313. He is 23.

Lucas, 33, is a dependable right handed pitcher. He won 13 games last year with a last place club. Roettger, expected to be used as a pinch hitter, formerly was a St. Louis Cardinal.
